12 Chennai schools participate in Hindustan International School’s INNOWIZ 2.5

Chennai, July 30: Hindustan International School, Padur, recently hosted the second edition of its inter-school fest, INNOWIZ 2.5, bringing together young talent and fresh ideas from across the city. Students from 12 reputed Chennai schools took part in 21 events that spanned science, technology, public speaking, performing and fine arts, and sports. The fest provided a lively platform for students to compete, collaborate, and showcase their creativity and skills across a range of disciplines.

The event was graced by Lt Gen Michael A J Fernandez, AVSM, VSM, Commandant of the Officers Training Academy, Chennai, as the Chief Guest, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Fernandez.

In his address, Lt. Gen. Fernandez said, “Discipline, creativity, leadership, and a clear vision in life are essential—and above all, one must value a strong spoken reputation. I commend the school for its efforts in fostering holistic development among students.”

“At Hindustan International School, we believe in nurturing not just academic excellence but also imagination, leadership, and collaborative spirit,” said Dr. Anand Jacob Verghese, Chairman of Hindustan Group of Institutions.

“INNOWIZ 2.5 is a reflection of that vision—where students come together to challenge themselves, express their creativity, and learn from one another. We are proud to host a platform that celebrates the talent and energy of today’s youth.”

The fest saw enthusiastic participation in events such as NeuroDrone, TED-style Talks, Brand Battle, Ignite the Floor, Symphoria (band performances), visual arts, and The Final Cut – Short Film, along with spirited football and basketball competitions. Budding innovators, speakers, artists, and athletes showcased their talents, making the day a vibrant celebration of youth potential.

A special highlight of the evening was a live performance by playback singer Praniti, who captivated the audience with her dynamic stage presence and soulful music, adding star power to the celebration.

The event concluded with a grand Valedictory Ceremony, prize distribution, and a group photo session, celebrating not just the winners, but also the spirit of collaboration, creativity, and excellence shared by students from across schools.

From khadi to corruption: How India’s politicians traded simplicity for sycophancy – and common man pays price

I used to wake up every morning to the crisp rustle of newspapers — editions fresh off the press, packed with politics, promises, and a fair share of pretense. I would scan for the day’s most intriguing stories and pen my thoughts on them. But today’s news isn’t just interesting — it is an eye-opener. It took me back in time and brought forth a tsunami of comparison between then and now. Specifically, it was about how drastically the cost of living — and the cost of honesty — have skyrocketed.

Let’s rewind a bit.

Yesteryears: When Life Was Simpler, Values Were Richer

I vividly recall post-independence India — a country bruised by colonial rule but still brimming with idealism. Even the politicians, believe it or not, were once human beings. They wore khadi dhotis and simple shirts, travelled in Ambassadors, and spoke in humility, not hubris. I remember seeing candidates for Parliament arrive with maybe one or two aides — not a convoy of bulletproof SUVs flanked by muscle-bound sycophants and gun-toting henchmen.

As a boy, I worked for the Congress office during elections. We used to write voter slips for Re. 1 a day. That rupee came with tea and biscuits and, occasionally, a sense of purpose. The election fever then was about democracy. Now, it’s a festival of deceit, fueled by freebies, caste equations, and currency notes stacked higher than the promises made.

Let me give you an example. My father would hand me Rs.15 to buy vegetables. I would go to our regular vendor, and he would fill two baskets with the freshest Ooty produce: carrots, cabbages, cauliflowers, potatoes, onions, beans, drumsticks —always with a smile and a handful of coriander and chillies thrown in for free. He even helped carry the baskets to our Austin car. That was India then — polite, personal, and profoundly human.

Even the humble Udipi hotel — a bastion of vegetarian delights — served crisp masala dosas with sambar and vadai for 1.5 annas. Yes, annas! Try ordering that now and you’ll be lucky if you can afford the GST on the dosa. Today’s India: A Nation of Empty Wallets and Full Stomachs — At the Top

Fast-forward to 2025. The same dosa now costs Rs. 180 in a steel-and-glass cafeteria run by a corporate chain owned by a politician’s nephew. The vegetable vendor has been replaced by an app — one that inflates prices during rain, elections, and bad moods.

What about our politicians?

Gone are the dhotis. In are designer jackets, luxury watches, and foreign holidays disguised as “official visits.” Some of our MPs have declared assets that would make even Ambani blush. From selfless servants of the people, they’ve become high priests of excess — funding lifestyles on a diet of public money and corruption.

Corruption, by the way, is no longer a stigma. It’s an asset class. A portfolio item; A career path.

Let’s Talk Numbers: How the Tax Burden Shifted from Ministers to the Masses

In 1945, the tax-free limit was Rs. 1,500. A person earning Rs. 5,000 paid just one anna in tax. At a time when the barter system still thrived in rural areas,

Friday, 17th August 1945

RATES OF INCOME-TAX

A. In the case of every individual, Hindu undivided family, undivided Mamakathayam (tarawad), unregistered firm and other association of persons not being a case to which paragraph B of this schedule applies—

	Rate in the rupees
1. On the first Rs. 1,500 of total income	Nil
2. On the next Rs. 3,500 of total income	Eight pias
3. On the next Rs. 5,000 of total income	One anna
4. On the next Rs. 5,000 of total income	One anna six pias
5. On the balance income	Two annas

Provided that—
(*) no income-tax shall be payable on a total income which does not exceed Rs. 2,000.

Rise of Spectacle

What was once a country where money had meaning and a rupee stretched far, is now a nation of glittering malls, bankrupt farmers, and unemployed graduates. Poverty, on paper, has been eliminated. But paper doesn’t bleed. People do.

We now live in a fantasy world where we think we’re a global superpower, but forget we’re also a country where a child dies of malnutrition every few minutes; Where job seekers queue up for days for a peon’s post; Where the youth are over-qualified, underemployed, and increasingly disillusioned.

Final Word: Bring Back the Basket, Burn the Bulletproof SUVs.

What we need isn’t nostalgia for annas or dosa prices. What we need is a return of accountability. A revival of public service as a mission, not a money-making venture. It is time politicians earned back the right to be called leaders — not looters.

Until then, the common man — and his income tax — will continue to carry the weight of a democracy that has forgotten its roots and sold its soul.

Got a memory from a simpler India? Or a modern-day tale of absurdity?. Let’s not just reminisce. Let’s remember why things must change.

Extramarks launches ‘Extra Intelligence’ AI powered education suite

Chennai, July 30: Extramarks Education has unveiled Extra Intelligence, an AI-powered education suite aimed at transforming teaching, assessment, and student support. With this launch, Extramarks becomes one of the first edtech companies to deeply integrate AI across the entire school ecosystem — from classrooms to home learning.

Key features include:

- Teacher Assistant: Helps educators personalize lessons with real-world context, interactive content, and AI-generated collaborative activities.
- AI Assessments: Enables accurate evaluation of handwritten, subjective answers through AI — saving teachers hours of grading time.
- Live Class Enhancements: Tracks student engagement in real time and provides teachers with insights to improve effectiveness.
- AI Co-Pilot for Students: Offers 24/7 doubt resolution, interactive video support, and step-by-step guidance for complex problems.
- Curriculum Mapping & Multilingual Support: Instantly aligns content to any curriculum and supports multiple languages including Arabic, Tamil, Marathi, and more.

At the global launch event on July 28, CEO Ritvik Kulshrestha said the platform marks a shift from simple digitization to intelligent, inclusive learning at scale. Rollout across partner schools has begun and will continue in phases.
